3. College will celebrate important days relating to environment and Awareness Programmes will be conducted for conservation of Natural Resources:

- Celebration of the important days like Earth Day, International Biodiversity Day, World Environment Day will be done through conducting seminars, publication of wall magazine and poster competitions to promote awareness regarding conservation of nature and natural resources,
- Plantation at the college campus to be encouraged.
- With the assistance of the NSS unit, campaigns will be conducted on campus on a regular basis to raise awareness of vector-borne illnesses, health, and hygiene.

4. Academic courses to be offered on environmental issues:

- Departments to be requested to organise Value added courses on waste management, water conservation, bio conservation etc.
- Environmental science is compulsorily taught as a part of the University Curricula. Teachers will be asked to take extra effort in helping students develop an awareness of the environment.

5. Medicinal Plant Garden:

- The Department of Botany already maintains a small unit of Medicinal Plant Garden within the college campus as a green campus initiative. Various ornamental plants and a vegetable garden already exist within the college campus and these will be properly maintained and further enriched with new plants.
- The College has already installed a Compost Unit which will be maintained by Zoology Department and Eco-Club students. The students would help to produce compost that keeps the vegetable garden and medicinal plant garden green and healthy.

6. Outreach Programmes to be conducted:

- Awareness rallies which are held regularly as part of this program will be continued and increased in frequency as much as possible
- Sanitization and health hygiene awareness programmes are regularly being held and will be further encouraged within and beyond the campus, especially at tea garden areas.
- Students will be encouraged to visit agricultural fields to research plant diseases and meet with farmers. This will enhance their understanding of plant pathogen interaction, provide them with knowledge about control techniques, and make them aware of the social and economic implications of these actions.

7. Conducting Green Audit is mandatory to monitor the proper execution of the plans and assess the efficacy of the programmes and will be done regularly.

Roles and Responsibilities:

- The college administration will offer all the assistance required to carry out the aforementioned plans.
- The responsibility for planning and carrying out the environmental measures will be looked after by the Green Audit and the Eco-club Committee.
- In order to accomplish the above points, the NSS unit of the college will cooperate to carry out the plans.
- Students and staff will also need to actively participate in order to sustain these practices, and they will also be responsible for carrying out the actions after they have been approved.

Conclusion: Gorubathan Government College thus intends to gradually make its transition to more environmentally friendly operations. By doing so, it hopes to raise awareness of environmental issues among students and staff as well as serve as an example for other public offices and institutions in the neighbourhood.
